Flight Operations Officer Basic Training

Our 22-week training is the only program that fulfills the recruitment requirements for all airlines within the Lufthansa Group, including Lufthansa Airlines, Austrian Airlines, Discover Airlines, and Brussels Airlines.

Throughout the course, you will acquire the necessary skills and knowledge to become a flight operations officer. We deliver the course in accordance with Competency-Based Training based on ICAO DOC 10106.

Overview

- Become a Flight Operations Officer in 22 weeks without prior knowledge
- We have a few places left in the next course! The course will start at the earliest in January 2027.
- Blended learning concept with remote and online training
- Training by experienced FOOs, pilots, CAMO Technicians and many more
- Meets the recruitment criteria of Lufthansa Group Airlines
- In accordance with Competency- Based Training based on ICAO DOC 10106

Structure of the training

The training is divided into two phases: the first focuses on building foundational knowledge, while the second emphasizes applying that knowledge to case studies and daily tasks.

We use a blended learning approach. Most classes take place online, while the kick-off event for each phase, as well as assessments, the on-site week, and Phase 1 workshops, are held at the Lufthansa Aviation Center in Frankfurt. Remote learning is supported by a learning management system.

The course is limited to a maximum of 10 participants, ensuring an individualized learning environment.

This structure has proven to be very effective over the past years.

Requirements

Before the start of training, all participants must pass the Basic Level Test. This is a two-hour online session designed to get a first impression of the participants. No prior knowledge is required.

Fluency in written and spoken English is necessary. A good command of German is helpful.

We cannot offer any financial support.

Further information

For any questions, please contact foa@lat.dlh.de and we will support you!